BACKED BY MILLIONS

Plans for the Greatest Industrial Battle Ever Inaugurated.

CONFLICT BEGINS MAY FIRST.

The Opposing Parties Will Be the Miners and Mine Owners—The Entire National Organization of Miners, Comprising One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Men, Will Be Directly Involved in a Demand for Eight Hours to Be a Day's Work—Other Labor News.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 23.—The miners of the United States have just completed plans for the greatest industrial battle ever inaugurated in America. The conflict between the miners and the mine owners will take place on the 1st of May. The entire National organization of miners, comprising 150,000 men, will be directly involved in a demand for the eight hour day. According to the figures which are being given it will be a battle of millions of dollars against labor organizations, also backed by millions of money.

At the convention of the American Federation of Labor, held in Detroit some weeks ago, it was decided to back the miners for eight hours next May. The utterances of the officers of the United Mine Workers on the subject leaves no doubt that the miners will make the fight.

An immense strike fund is being made ready for the miners, and when the latter go out they will have at their back for immediate use nearly $1,000,000. This fund will be swelled from time to time at the rate of $50,000 a week.

W. J. Dillon, secretary of the American Flint-glass Workers' union, United States organizer for the American Federation of Labor, yesterday gave the following interview on the coming fight: "In the aggregate we figure on about 150,000 miners in the United States. Almost 75,000 of these are active members of the United Mine Workers. The remainder are members of the organization when it comes to a struggle. These are the men who will strike for eight hours next May unless something unforeseen should occur.

"The Federation numbers about 690,000 men and 500,000 men can be counted upon. For six weeks before May 1, strike contributions will be levied on the members at a rate of ten cents a week. This will make $300,000 for the six weeks. The formal ratification of the matter will take place at next month's convention of the United Mine Workers to be held in Columbus, O.

"The latter organization has a strike fund of its own amounting to several hundred thousand dollars. Besides this, it will raise a special fund before the first, so that $1,000,000 will be ready by May 1, on which to conduct the contemplated conflict."

THE RAILROAD STRIKE.

Not a Train Moving Over the Chicago and Erie Road.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Jan. 23.—The striking Chicago and Erie employees had things their own way here yesterday, not a train moved and the several hundred passengers who were on the vestibuled trains stopped here were sent out over the Wabash. An effort of citizens to effect a compromise failed, the offer made being rejected.

All the brotherhoods are now involved, Chief Arthur telegraphing the engineers sustaining them in their refusal to haul trains manned by new employees. At 6 o'clock yesterday evening a special train, carrying Superintendent Moorehead and a committee of conductors, left for Chicago for a conference with Grand Chief Conductor Clark and General Manager Tucker. It is thought that a compromise may result and the strike brought to a close.

The conference between Grand Chief Conductor Clark, of the Order of Railroad Conductors, with the men here, was a secret one, and it is not known what course will be pursued in regard to the dismissal of Train Dispatcher Scott.

Three men only, copyists in the dispatcher's office, refused to strike. The Erie grievance committee at Altoona, Pa., is asked to assist. Passenger No. 1 went through from Marion with nothing but the express car.

Chicago switchmen have refused to handle Erie freight. All that is asked is the reinstatement of Scott. General Manager Tucker says this will never be done.

Miners Holding a Conference.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 23.—A Times' special dispatch from Clearfield says that the coal operators and representatives of the miners are holding a conference in that city discussing the question of an advance of five cents per ton in the mining rate. The conference is still in session. The indications are, however, that a strike will be avoided and the time for enforcing the demand will be postponed.

Not Organizing Strikes.

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—At a meeting last night of the Bay State division No. 65, Order of Railway Telegraphers, resolutions were adopted contradicting the published statements that the Order of Railway Telegraphers is organizing strikes on certain western roads, and placing the division on record as opposing strikes.

Not the Man Wanted.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 23.—Dramatic scenes were enacted in the Federal court yesterday afternoon. Judge Woods dismissed S. E. Williams, arrested on a charge of violating the pension laws. All the witnesses declared Williams was not the man wanted. He is old and penniless, and has been in the horrible bug-ridden jail fifty-six days awaiting trial, and not a breath of evidence against him.

VOTING FOR SENATORS.

The Deadlock Still Existing in the Two Dakotas—Elsewhere.

PIERRE, S. Dak., Jan. 23.—At noon yesterday the legislature in joint session balloted for the United States senator with the following result, 85 being necessary to a choice: Moody, Republican, 74; Tripp, Democrat, 24; Harden, Independent, 17. The remainder of the votes was scattered among thirteen other candidates. Four ballots were taken without result, the last one stood: Moody 73, Tripp 24, Harden 20, remainder scattered.

Six Republicans still refuse to vote for Moody. The Republicans will hold a caucus, and an effort will be made to induce Moody to withdraw and let the other candidates enter without caucusing.

North Dakota.

BISMARCK, N. Dak., Jan. 23.—Nine ballots were taken yesterday for senator without any result, but it is pretty well understood that Hansbrough will come out winner in the wind up, which will not be for several days yet by the looks of things. The last ballot was as follows: Hansbrough, 24; McCormack, 23; Pierce, 19; Miller, 16; rest scattering.

Vilas for Senator.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 23.—In the joint Democratic legislative caucus yesterday, William F. Vilas, postmaster general and secretary of the interior under Cleveland's administration, was nominated for United States senator. The election takes place Tuesday. The Republicans will cast a complimentary vote for Mr. Spooner.

Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 23.—The fourth senatorial ballot yesterday afternoon resulted: Palmer, 101; Oglesby, 100; Streeter, 3. No choice. On motion of Taubeneck, F. M. B. A. representative, the joint assembly adjourned for the day—ayes 103, nays 101, the F. M. B. A. members voting with the Republicans.

MAY PRECIPITATE A FEUD.

A Recent Shooting Affray in Breathitt County, Ky.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 23.—News has reached here of a desperate shooting affray in Breathitt county. Several days ago Robert S. Combs was returning home from a logging expedition, in company with his brother and son. On Troublesome creek, seven miles from Jackson, the three men came upon a party of men who were engaged in a shooting match.

Among them were John Fugate and James Miller. Jesse Field's saloon was close by the shooting ground, and the shooters were well filled with moonshine. Fugate approached the elder Combs and began abusing him because the latter's nephew, C. W. Allen, had killed Nathan Fugate, a brother to John, not long ago.

Miller soon joined in the row, and in a few minutes both men had out their revolvers and were banging away at Combs, who was unarmed. Nothing daunted, however, he grabbed a Winchester from one of the by-standers and began firing at his assailants. The marksmanship of all three was poor, for when the fusillade was over the only wounded man was Combs, who had a bullet in his thigh. Fugate and Miller got away, and have not been arrested. As both the Combs and Fugate families have large followings, this affair is likely to precipitate another Breathitt feud. Fugate is related to the notorious counterfeiters of that name, and has the strongest kind of backing among the worst element of the mountains.

MYSTERIOUS BOX

Containing Money and Notes Found in the Canal at Joliet, Ill.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 23.—Wednesday one of the workmen who is employed in cleaning out the canal locks near Joliet, struck his pick against a heavy obstacle deeply imbedded in the mud of the canal. Investigation proved it to be a strong wooden box which was evidently lost or thrown away years ago. The foreman in charge of the work broke the box open and found some old legal papers so badly damaged by water as to be illegible.

There was also a package of bank notes of different denominations on the Merchants' and Drivers' bank, of Joliet, which has been out of existence for over twenty years. The only find of real value was some Mexican and Spanish coins, amounting to about $50, and an old flint lock firearm resembling a horse pistol. Experts have taken charge of the papers, and hope by drying and chemical processes to decipher enough of the writing to ascertain to whom the mysterious looking box belonged.

Passenger Train Ran Into.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 23.—A light engine ran into a passenger train on the Boston and Maine road yesterday, near Scarborough, wrecking the engine and baggage car. Car inspector Tuttle and Fireman Fisher were badly injured, the former probably fatally. Some passengers were slightly hurt.

Will Stand by Ingalls to the Last.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 23.—The Republican members of the legislature in caucus have decided to stay by Ingalls until he was elected to the senate. A telegram was received from Senator Ingalls, announcing that he had started for Topeka.

Another Bank Closed Up.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 23.—A bank examiner took charge of the First National bank of Medicine Lodge yesterday. The bank was connected with the American National of Kansas City. The capital stock is $50,000.

Railroad Accident.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 23.—It is reported that an accident occurred on the New York and New England railway this morning at Hopeville junction. It was not stated whether it was serious or not.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Vast Amount of Work in the Pension Office.

ONE HALF-MONTH'S DOINGS.

Over Ten Thousand Certificates Issued the First Fifteen Days in January. Over Two Thousand Inquiries in a Single Day—Proceedings of the House and Senate—Other Dispatches from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The pension office from the 1st of January to the 15th inclusive, has issued 10,377 pension certificates, the greater portion of them being granted under the dependent pension law. This is said to be the largest number ever issued during a like period.

Commissioner Raum said yesterday that the inquiries received from the congressmen regarding the status of pending cases has thrown a great deal of additional work upon the bureau. As an instance, one day last week 2,086 inquiries were received. The entire force of the adjudicating division, numbering about 600 clerks, was put on the work of answering these communications and at the close of the day there were 311 inquiries still unanswered. The daily average of such inquiries, the commissioner says, range from 600 to 1,500. The accumulation of this work keeps a large force constantly employed, which is not specifically provided for, so that details have to be made from the various divisions, and thus regular routine business of the office is interfered with.

House and Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—In the house yesterday the journal of last Tuesday was finally approved. The District of Columbia appropriation bill was then passed without further difficulty, and the house in the committee of the whole considered the naval appropriation bill, but without action on it adjourned.

In the senate Mr. Aldrich moved the consideration of his resolution to amend the rules. A point of order was made by Mr. Harris that the question before the senate was the approval of Tuesday's journal. After an extended debate the point of order was overruled, and the cloture resolution was brought before the senate. Discussion on this resolution continued until 6 o'clock, when the senate adjourned.

Internal Revenue Collections.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—A statement prepared by Mr. Mason, commissioner of internal revenue, shows that the total collections for the first six months of the current fiscal year are $75,697,143, an increase over the first half of the previous fiscal year of $6,619,662. The aggregate receipts for December, 1890, were $1,893,803 greater than for December, 1889. The principal items of increase in the first six months of the present fiscal year of internal revenue collections are: Spirits, $2,852,469; tobacco, $1,970,630; fermented liquors, $1,640,526.

Asking for a Special Vessel.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The secretary of the treasury sent to the house yesterday a communication from the attorney general in relation to the necessity of having means of transportation of witnesses, and the arrest of murderers in that section of Alaska lying west of Sitka. The secretary recommends that a revenue cutter be detailed for this duty. The cost of equipping the vessel is estimated at $7,050.

On the Retired List.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Brig. Gen. S. V. Benet, chief of the ordnance of the army, was yesterday placed on the retired list, having reached the age of 62 years. His place has been a bone of contention among the colonels of the ordnance corps of the army for some months, and now the contest seems to be between Cols. Flagler and Whittemore.

Assistant Attorneys' Salaries.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The house committee on judiciary has authorized a favorable report on the bill, fixing the compensation of assistant attorneys in the department of justice. The bill is reported with an amendment fixing the salary at $3,500 per annum.

FORCED TO RETIRE.

Chicago's Greatest Speculator Will Do No More Business.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—The Journal yesterday afternoon says that B. P. Hutchinson, the veteran and boldest speculator the Chicago board of trade has ever known, has withdrawn from speculation. "It is estimated," says The Journal, "that Mr. Hutchinson has lost about $19,000,000 within twenty years. In 1870 he was reported to have a fortune of $20,000,000. Ten years ago, his son says, this had dwindled to $10,000,000, and now there is but $1,000,000 left. It was to save this from following the rest of his money that Mr. Hutchinson's family insisted upon his retirement."

The Journal says that some time ago L. Hutchinson, his son, and also president of the board of trade, had a talk with his father, and told him that unless he would close up his deals quietly and give up all speculative business, the matter would be taken into the courts and a conservator applied for. Mr. Hutchinson, Sr., was very angry for a time, but finally consented to the terms and at once evened up his trades and closed his books. Mr. Hutchinson still frequents the trading hall, but he is not doing any trading, it is said.

B. P. HUTCHINSON. In 1870 he was reported to have a fortune of $20,000,000. Ten years ago, his son says, this had dwindled to $10,000,000, and now there is but $1,000,000 left. It was to save this from following the rest of his money that Mr. Hutchinson's family insisted upon his retirement."

A KING'S FUNERAL.

The Services Attended by a Large Crowd.

DISTINGUISHED HONORS.

They Are Rendered to the Dead King. National Troops, California Militia and Knights Templar Escort the Body to the Charleston, Which Departs for Honolulu.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—The last honors were paid to the late King Kalakaua yesterday afternoon. The body of the dead king lay in state in the mortuary chapel of the Trinity Episcopal church. A guard of regular soldiers from Presidio watched over the casket throughout the night. Early in the morning the streets in the vicinity of the church were thronged with people, and as the hour for the funeral services approached, they became densely packed.

Companies of regular troops and of National guards of California were constantly arriving and wheeling into position. Carriages conveying to the church the distinguished persons who were to be present at the services, and an eager throng of people pushed to and fro vainly seeking entrance to the church.

A little before 1 o'clock Admiral Brown and staff, of the Pacific squadron, United States navy, entered the church.

The scene in the church was a deeply impressive one. A number of representatives of foreign governments present were arrayed in official dress, but the church itself was not decorated, save in the chancel, at the back of which draped American and Hawaiian colors, immediately in front of which burned jets of gas, artistically arranged in the form of a crown. The rails of the first three pews on the left of center aisle, which had been set apart for the Hawaiian party, were draped in black, and the chancel was filled with large and choice floral pieces, offerings of personal friends and of societies of which the king had been a member.

The clergy, followed by the guard of honor, proceeded slowly down the center aisle, reading the burial psalms. Just behind the clergy followed a body of pallbearers, who bore the coffin, draped in Hawaiian colors and heaped with flowers, to the bier within the chancel. As the coffin was borne into the chancel the clergy, comprising all the ministers of the Episcopal faith in the city, with the exception of Bishop Kipp, who was ill, and his assistant, Bishop Nichols, arranged themselves on either side. A selection from Scripture was then read by Bishop Spaulding, of St. James' church, and a hymn, "Jerusalem, the Golden," was sung by the choir. Rev. J. Sanders Reed delivered a short funeral discourse.

The choir then sang "Rock of Ages." After the benediction the funeral cortege slowly took the coffin to the hearse. The procession moved to the water front immediately after the conclusion of the service in the church and was a most imposing demonstration. The police force furnished the escort which was found necessary to restrain the great crowds. The procession was headed by two troops of the Fourth cavalry with the Fifth artillery band at the head. Next came the light battery of the Fifth artillery, followed by the Second brigade of the National guard of California. The hearse was escorted by the Golden Gate commandery. The suite of the king followed the hearse in a carriage. Then came Gen. Gibbon and staff and representatives of the government, Maj. Gen. Dimond and staff, Federal, state, city and county officials, representatives of the mercantile bodies, civic societies and private citizens came next in carriages.

Between Powell street and the foot of Market, there were assembled not less than 100,000 spectators. There was a total cessation of business all along the line of march and on other thoroughfares. The cavalry escort on reaching Washington street wharf presented arms as the casket was delivered to Admiral Brown. The casket was placed aboard the lighthouse steamer Madrona and received by Admiral Brown. Then the Madrona steamed out to the Charleston and the casket was transferred to the flagship and placed in the after barquette under a canopy formed of American and Hawaiian flags. In a few minutes the Charleston's anchors were hoisted and she commenced to move down the bay, while the minute guns were fired from the batteries on shore. About 5 o'clock in the afternoon the Charleston passed through the Golden Gate and proceeded to sea.

New Oil Field in Jefferson County, O. STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 23.—The May Durham well, the third in Island creek township oil field, is at least a twenty-barrel. It is down less than a 1,000 feet, and drilling will be resumed with confident anticipation that the flow will be greatly increased when the lower sand is reached. The first well in the field came in six weeks ago and flowed eighteen barrels, the second well was dry, so that great anxiety is manifested about the May Durham, and when oil was struck excitement was great. Prices of leases in the vicinity have taken a big jump.

Telegraph Operator Missing.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23.—L. D. Hamilton, one of the oldest operators in the service of the Western Union Telegraph company here, has been missing since Jan. 15. Some time he has been addicted to drink, and it is feared that he has committed suicide by jumping into the river. Hamilton has a wife living in Ohio.

Cupid Can Sometimes Hustle.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 23.—Victoria Kelly, of Dayton, visiting here, and Reuben L. Leffel, met Sunday night for the first time. It was love at first sight. Before leaving he proposed, was accepted and they were married Wednesday.

AN AGREEMENT REACHED.

GALION, O., Jan. 23.—The Farmers' Alliance and Knights of Labor yesterday joined in a mutual adoption of resolutions which demanded the abolition of the National banking system and increase the circulation medium to $50 per capita; denounced the silver bill and demanded in lieu thereof the free and unlimited coinage of silver; demanded the passage of laws prohibiting alien ownership of lands; demanded that the government obtain by purchase all railroads and telegraphs in the country; demanded the election of president, vice president and senators by the popular vote of the people and that all charters of monopolies and trusts be annulled; demanded the passage of the Conger land bill; condemned the Associated Press and opposed subsidies, both state and National.

The farmers have resolved that if their demands are not heeded by the present political parties, they will form a third party. They elect officers this afternoon.

The following officers were elected: President, W. H. Likens, of Highland; vice president, J. C. A. Cobb, of Jackson; secretary, Mr. Crawford; treasurer, Mr. Kahl; Miller Purvis, state lecturer.

There existed among the delegates a strong sentiment in favor of the immediate formation of a new party, but it was noticed in almost every instance the possessor of such feeling was a Greenbacker. This element was not strong enough to dominate the convention, but sufficiently strong to compel the adoption of a compromise declaration upon the question of a party making such action contingent upon future events.

Power of the Ohio Farmers' Alliance.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 23.—An indication of the strength the Farmers' Alliance has in the state legislation in Ohio was given Wednesday. The state Alliance Wednesday morning sent a telegram to the general assembly asking the repeal of the law exempting manufactured products from taxation for one year after production. Before the house adjourned in the evening the bill was passed with few dissenting votes.

A SHREWD THIEF.

He Steals a Package of Letters Containing $150,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—The Chicago postal authorities and the officers of the Northwestern National bank are looking for a shrewd thief and a package of letters containing about $150,000. Wednesday morning the bank messenger went to the postoffice for the regular 10 o'clock mail. The amount seemed small to him, and sticking his head in at the window, he said:

"Where's the rest of the mail for the Northwestern National bank?"

"Be ready in about fifteen minutes," the clerk replied.

A sharp-looking fellow, hanging about near the window, heard the conversation and twelve minutes later stuck his head in at the window and said:

"Got the rest of that mail for the Northwestern National bank ready yet?"

The mail was ready and was given to the stranger without question. Three minutes afterward the regular bank messenger appeared and asked for his mail only to be told that it had been sent over. He reported the matter to the assistant cashier, who hurried to the postoffice and told the officials of the blunder. Detectives were immediately started out on the case, but so far without result. The bank officers think that about sixty letters are gone and that they contain from $100,000 to $150,000, the greater part of which is non-negotiable paper.

Dastardly Work of Train Robbers.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Jan. 23.—Further particulars of the train wreck and robbery on the Rio Grande road on the 19th inst., say that after securing the money the robbers blindfolded the passengers and trainmen, forced them into a box-car, locked them in and left. The derailed coaches caught fire from the overturned locomotive and but for the assistance of some farmers living near the scene the imprisoned passengers and trainmen would have perished in the flames. The sheriff and a posse of men are in pursuit of the robbers.

Stabbed His Son While Drunk.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 23.—John Miller, a blacksmith, living at 12 Hudson park, went home drunk last night and was at once remonstrated with by his son, John, for his idleness and neglect to support his family. The father attacked the son, and a desperate struggle ensued. Finally, the father stabbed his son several times with a pocket knife, from the effect of which the son died early this morning. Miller, who is under arrest, says he remembers nothing of the occurrence.

Ruined His Home.

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Jan. 23.—Charles Durham went home early and found William Miles in bed with his wife. This did not suit Mr. Durham, and he proceeded to whip Miles, throwing him out of the house into the gutter, and then jumped on him, breaking his wrist, dislocating a shoulder and otherwise disabling him. Some one swore out a warrant, had him arrested, and it cost him $10.31 for whipping the man he caught with his wife.

Hennessey's Successor.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23.—The police board elected D. S. Gaster to the office of chief of police of this city. Mr. Gaster has been connected with the force for many years, principally as an aid to the chief and as a detective under different chiefs. Mr. Gaster is one of the best known detectives in the United States, and personally popular with the various chiefs and agencies throughout the country.

EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, "EXCEPT SUNDAY."
ROSSER & McCARTHY,
Proprietors.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1891.

The Constitutional Convention has been in session one hundred and twenty days, and is not half through with its work.

A GENTLEMAN who is prominently identified with the business interests of this city assures us that $50,000 or $100,000 can be raised here in a short time to establish warehouses in Maysville if the farmers of Mason and surrounding counties will guarantee to support the houses and market their tobacco here.

The question as to whether a market can be successfully maintained here can be fully tested by a year's trial. What will the growers do? Will they guarantee to support the warehouse? It is to their interest to have a market close at home. They can show that they are interested in the move by every one of them subscribing for a few shares of stock in the association.

The Constitutional Convention has developed into a crowd of wranglers, who are frittering away day after day in making points of order, and quarreling with each other. The proceedings yesterday were disgraceful. The Louisville Times' correspondent says:

"The most rapid work the convention has ever done was the making of about one hundred points of order in thirty minutes, and the confusion was enough to infuriate any other presiding officer than the distinguished gentleman who tried to hold them down. The delegates, however, were trying to out-congress Congress, and it seems an easier task for them to make monkeys of themselves than any other body of men in the world. President Clay wore out a gavel during the first hour and a half without securing for one minute as good order as is expected in a mule-stable. Some of the more prominent delegates left the hall in disgust. For five minutes at a time members were on the floor wildly gesticulating and yelling at each other."

It is time for the delegates to quit making fools of themselves. Surely there are enough sensible men in the convention to put a stop to such disgraceful doings as detailed above, and complete the work for which the people elected them.

AFTER TAX-SHIKERS

The Board of Supervisors Makes a Good Recommendation.

The Board of Supervisors, who finished their work a day or so ago, got after the tax-shirkers before adjourning.

An excellent recommendation was made to the County Judge, and it will no doubt be acted upon by that official.

If the recommendation is carried out, when the Supervisors meet hereafter in annual session, there will be laid before them a complete list of the real estate mortgages recorded in the County Clerk's office from Sept. 15, 1890, up to the date on which the Board convenes. In this way every fellow who loans his money on real estate will have to list it for taxation. If he fails to do so, the Board will do it for him. The recommendation of the Board this week is as follows:

"To the Hon. Judge of the Mason County Court.—It appearing to the satisfaction of the Board of Supervisors of Mason County that there is a large amount of taxable personal property not assessed by the Board or by the Assessor, for the reason that same is held upon mortgaged property, and it appearing to the Board that the Clerk of the Mason County Court can not furnish a list of said persons holding said mortgages in time for the Board to examine and assess same for this year; therefore, we do hereby recommend to the court that an order be made for the Clerk of the Mason County Court to make a complete list of all the mortgages recorded in his office (other than chattel mortgages) from September 15th, 1890, up to the time of the meeting of the Board of Supervisors in each and every year and that said Clerk be paid a reasonable compensation for his work out of the revenue of this county; and further, we believe that if said work is done that the assessed value of property in the county will be increased from $100,000 to $200,000 each year."

GAME IN PATAGONIA.

HOW THE NATIVES KILL IT WITH THEIR DEADLY BOLAS.

An Interesting Account of an Expedition Into Deep Canyons—Strange Habits of a Peculiar People—Exciting Hunting and Plenty of It.

The "cow," called by the Spaniards "toldo," is a native hut, something like a sloping shed, seven feet high in front and two feet high at the back, twelve feet long by nine wide, and covered with skin.

I had left the ship at Desengano bay and started with a native servant named Katrilas, whom we had picked up farther down the coast and carried as interpreter to penetrate the Guaitaca country of the Patagonians in order to get some skins of the guanaco.

The guanaco is a species of the llama, which to South America is what the camel is to oriental countries, and is not, indeed, unlike that animal in certain respects.

After we had concluded arrangements for pelts at one village the old chief asked us to accompany the young men on a hunt, in order that they might give me a practical illustration of the use of the wonderful native weapon called the "bolas," which is the father of the cowboy's lariat, and on the morning of the hunt Katrilas called me.

PATAGONIANS AND THEIR BOLAS.

As I came out of the hut I found about a dozen Patagonians gathered about. They were muscular fellows, but not by any means approaching the gigantic stature attributed to these people by early travelers. Their color was a dark, copper brown, and the hair, long and coarse, hung loosely about their faces, and was only kept out of their eyes by a fillet of guanaco skin.

The Indians' dress consisted of a loin band and large mantle of guanaco skin, with gaiters to protect the ankles from thorns. From the wearing of gaiters came the name Patagonia; the sailors of Magellan, ridiculing these conspicuous items of dress, named the natives Patagones, which means "duck feet." The name adhered to the people and was afterward applied to their country.

Tethered some distance from the toldos were a number of horses, something like mustangs, standing about fifteen hands high and very fleet and strong, but not very symmetrical. Two of these animals had been provided for myself and Katrilas, and as soon as breakfast was over we galloped away with our guides, seated upon rude saddles made of wood and rawhide.

We made directly for the open country. The only weapons carried were bolas, of which there are two kinds, one made with two balls, called somai, and one with three balls, called achico. The achico is generally used. These weapons are made of stones, about twice the size of a baseball, made round by rubbing by the women of the tribes. Some are made of iron, and the most valuable of all are of copper, which, being smaller in proportion to their weight, offer less resistance to the air when thrown. About eighteen ounces is the customary weight.

THE GAME SIGHTED.

Each of these balls is laid in a circular piece of raw guanaco hide, which has holes around the edge. The pieces are fitted close to the ball by passing one end of the main thong through the holes and drawing it tight. The thongs are nine feet long, and are made in two sections, which, while the hide is fresh, are twisted together, so as to form a rope with two strands, the strength of which is very great. Two of these ropes are attached to each ball. In the three ball bolas the six ropes are joined together in a neat splice, which forms a handle.

The bolas is to the Patagonian what the boomerang is to the Australian.

We had ridden a few miles into the prairie, or savannah, when a scout who led us at some distance held up his hand as a signal that game was sighted. Immediately our line of hunters spread out in a curved line, and in a minute every horse was in motion at a slow trot. As we neared the scout I came to the top of a slight rise in the ground, and then I saw in the valley on the other side about forty of these llamas, which supply the native with his food, his dwelling, his clothes and half his weapon.

The herd had been held by the scout skillfully imitating the cry of a young deer in distress, and until we topped the rise the animals gazed curiously. Then they started, making for the hill that lay behind us. But our line, skillfully disposed, rendered a wide circuit on their part necessary. This speedily confused them. Though their fleet limbs might have saved them easily in a straight run, they scattered wildly, and ran hither and thither at lightning speed, swerving at every approach in their blind career to a hunter and screaming in nervous excitement.

Each hunter singled out his prey, and then I saw why the girdle was worn by the hunters outside the mantle. Loosening the garment at the throat as he galloped, the warrior let it drop to the belt, thus leaving his arms free and unencumbered, while his ends flapped and fluttered like wings, still further adding to the terror of the timid animals under pursuit.

A CURIOUS SCENE.

Seeing that the hunt simply ran to and fro and did not get away from the valley, I reined in my horse and watched the curious scene. The guanacos ran and after them rode the hunters, each grasping in his right hand the bolas, whose three balls, lying close together, circled slowly round and round his head. Each horse, though feeling the fever of the chase, answered to a pressure of the knees, and the rider's eyes were fixed upon the game.

Nearer and nearer drew the fleet horses, and then the bolas made a swifter, shorter revolution, the grasp was released and away sped the missile.

Now and only now I saw the true value of this weapon. As it left the hand the three balls, lying side by side, suddenly diverged under the action of centrifugal force, and spreading out, the weapon appeared transformed into a rigid triangular frame, which turned over and over in its flight.

Urged by the stalwart arm of the native it flew straight to the mark, and striking the guanaco on the shoulder, the impetus communicated to the balls coiled one thong in a suffocating twist round the animal's neck, a second around both legs and the third around the body, the ball striking the side with a heavy blow which broke two ribs.

As if struck with a bullet the animal dropped in its tracks. Quick as a flash the hunter leaped from his horse. With a swift twist he loosed his bolas, then a slash of his knife killed his victim. All this was done in seemingly a single motion, and then, more quickly than it can be described, the Indian was on his horse again in pursuit of another guanaco.

The scene was exciting in the extreme. In an almost incredibly short time fully two-thirds of the herd were killed.—W. P. Pond in Youth's Companion.

FOR MIND AND MUSCLE.

A very bright game which exercises both mind and muscles bears the odd name of "Jenkins down, Jenkins up." For this six players are required, though later more may take part. Sides are chosen, each side having a captain.

The players then seat themselves at opposite sides of a table, which should be covered with a cloth. The captain sits in the middle of his side. Somebody produces a coin—a quarter of a dollar or a cent will do. The captains toss up for the privilege of beginning. The winner takes the coin and the loser cries, "Jenkins up," whereupon all of his opponents hold up their hands with palms turned toward him. "Jenkins down," he orders, and at once all the hands are dropped under the table and the captain passes the coin about until the other captain calls "Jenkins up," and immediately every hand must be placed upon the table outspread with the back up.

Now the coin is hidden under one of these extended hands, and the game is for the other captain to locate it. He only may call, but his side acts as an advisory committee. One after another he touches the hands that he thinks hide no coin, and they are at once turned up. So he goes on until either he narrows it down to the hand that has the coin, or as more often happens, touches a hand that holds it, when at once he loses his call, and the game begins all over.

Instead of calling up the hands one by one the captain may call up all but one or two, and then if the coin has not been revealed he has either found it or has only one more guess. When he does succeed in finding it he takes it over to his side and the other captain has the calling up, the coin going from side to side until the players have enough of the game.—J. McDonald Oxley in New York Herald.

GUINEA PIGS.

The secretary of the Selborne Society of England, an association of lovers of wild nature, has lately written an account of the guinea pig. This creature, the writer says, stands absolutely alone, from one point of view. Do what you will, it is impossible to make a friend of him.

Titmice, robins, squirrels, wild ducks, cuckoos, even rats and mice, have been found amenable to kindness. Even Roman snails, Egyptian beetles, and butterflies have been taught to recognize their masters and show a friendly interest in them, and the snake has his likes and dislikes, his sympathies and his hatreds.

A common field snake grew so fond of the writer of the article referred to—a lady—that it would glide in through the window of her drawing room, coil itself around her dress, and, so far from objecting to be stroked and handled, would, each time that it was taken out and placed on the lawn, return to the drawing room and submit to the same operation.

It was far otherwise with Fluff, the guinea pig. He was simply stupidly harmless. "The guinea pig," this friend of all animals writes, "is the only instance of an animal I have ever known that seemed to be literally without a single habit, apparently without affection, without a temper good or bad, and with no wishes or desires except to be let alone to doze away his aimless life."

THE DIVISION OF TIME.

A "solar day" is measured by the rotation of the earth upon its axis and is of different lengths, owing to the ellipticity of the earth's orbit and other causes; but a mean solar day is twenty-four hours long, as recorded by timepieces. An "astronomical day" commences at noon and is counted from the first to the twenty-fourth hour. A "civil day" commences at midnight and is counted from the first to the twelfth hour, when it is again counted from the first to the twelfth at night. A "nautical day" is counted as a "civil day," only that the reckoning is begun at noon, as with the "astronomical day." A "calendar month" varies in length from 28 to 31 days. A mean "lunar month" is 29 days, 12 hours, 44 minutes, 2 seconds and 5.24 thirds.

A "year" is divided into 365 days. A "solar year," which is the time occupied by the sun in passing from one vernal equinox to another, consists of 365.2424 solar days, which is equal to 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 49.536 seconds. A "Julian year" is 365 days. A "Gregorian year" is 365.2425 days. Every fourth year is "bisextile" or "leap year," and is 366 days in length. The error in the Gregorian mode of reckoning time amounts to but one day in 3,571,428 years.—St. Louis Republic.

ABOUT REAL DIAMONDS.

Experts in diamonds say that there is no public in the world so intelligent in the choice of stones of the first water and of good color as the American. No diamond of any value should ever be purchased without carefully examining the stone with a microscope. There are abundance of diamonds in market which are offered at attractive prices, and which even to the experienced eye present all the beauty of perfect stones until they are subjected to a microscopic test, when the flaws in them become clearly visible.

The handsomest diamond ornaments now worn are in sun or star forms, and are set in platinum to show as little metal as possible. When worn as a pendant they are hung on a strong but almost invisible chain of platinum and gold. A renaissance scroll is another pattern of these diamond ornaments, which may be worn as brooch, pendant or jeweled hairpin; this is made up solidly of diamonds in invisible setting. There are also lovely crescents and many other designs.—New York Tribune.

A DEAD CERTAINTY.

Miss Summit (coldly)—Mr. Dasheday, I think it would be a friendly act in you to call your friend Mr. Cleverton's attention to his watch chain. It is so extremely brassy.

Dasheday—But, my dear Miss Summit, I'm sure that it's gold. I would swear to it.

Miss Summit—(cynically)—Why are you so sure?

Dasheday—I know for a fact that he got $18 on it recently.—Clothier and Furnisher.

ABERDEEN.

The dramatic club has decided to play "The In-shavogue." Ten Nights in a Bar Room could have been rendered with much more ease.

There will be services held at the (O. H.) Baptist Church next Tuesday evening, Jan. 27th, by Brother Jackson. All are cordially invited to attend.

Our Council should get a few more street lamps, which we are greatly in need of, as there are several places that are very dark and bad, especially on rainy nights.

Professor Frost will give an entertainment here the second week in February. He always has a superb company with him, and it is hoped that he will have a better attendance than there has been at entertainments heretofore.

We noticed in last week's issue of the G. & G. that Brother Stevenson had devoted a column and a half to the Farmers' Alliance. Wouldn't it be better to give a few more locals, something that would interest its readers, instead of such nonsense?

Miss Edith Hill is unable to attend school on account of her eyes. Miss Edith has the sympathy of her classmates and teacher, as she has always been an obedient and intelligent scholar, and a diligent worker. We join her friends in hoping she will soon be able to again resume her studies.

The G. A. R. bean-bake and oyster supper went off Wednesday as per arrangement. There wasn't as large a crowd as was expected, owing to the bad weather, but there was a fair attendance considering. Dr. T. Heaton made a few closing remarks which were loudly applauded. The total receipts were between $15 and $25.

The Gretna Green seems to possess a superfluous amount of gall for a young thing, to insult our citizens as it has. This is the second desperate attempt it has made in that direction that we know of. The first assault was made upon Mr. Joseph Cheeseman, Sr., an old gentleman who commands the respect of the whole community. Brother Stevenson jumped on him and called him names, etc., simply because he put a "notice" in a Georgetown paper instead of the G. & G., and we didn't blame Mr. Cheeseman, for he wanted it in a paper that would be read. The way out of Matt Hartman, and we think Matt has as good a record and is as much of a favorite as Bob. I GUESS SO.

John Hill and Tabi McDaniel have accepted positions in Portsmouth.

Several old veterans and their families from the country were in to the bean-bake.

The "Quiet Observer" has been complimented several times during the week by being spoken to as "I Guess So."

Several members of the Sons of Veterans' camp of Ripley attended the meeting of the Power Campbell Camp No. 174 of this place Tuesday night.

The G. A. R. bean-bake was quite a success, and the song of Oscar Bricker was especially good. Several very interesting stories were told and all enjoyed themselves.

QUIET OBSERVER.

A NOTEWORTHY EXCEPTION.

From the Kimball (S. D.) Graphic: "While the columns of the Graphic are open to any and all unobjectionable advertisements, yet it is quite impossible for us to speak knowingly of the merits of various articles of merchandise advertised. Particularly is this true of patent medicines. But there are exceptions occasionally and a noteworthy exception is the celebrated Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This now universally known medicine has been advertised in the Graphic for four or five years but not until recently had we any personal knowledge of its wonderful efficacy which has come about through the prevailing influenza and the stubborn cough that has so often attended it. In the writer's family this winter cured a cough that baffled any and all other medicines; and the number of families in Kimball and vicinity, in which this remedy has been used with like effects, attests to its value as a specific for coughs and colds of every nature." ### Fire at the Opera House.

WASHINGTON Opera House was discovered on fire shortly before 6 o'clock last evening. There was a prompt response to the alarm, and the flames were extinguished before much damage was done. It is not known how the fire started. The stage had been arranged during the afternoon for a hop that was to be given in the evening, and the old drop curtain hanging in the rear caught in some way and was burned. The discovery of the blaze in its incipency was all that saved the building from serious damage.

Katie Putnam.

"One of the most charming and versatile actresses on the road this season, and one of the most successful, is Katie Putnam in her new play, 'Love Finds a Way,'" says an exchange. "Miss Putnam is not only a clever dancer and singer and an exquisite performer on the banjo, but she also possesses accomplishments of a high dramatic order, which in her new piece finds plenty of scope for artistic and telling work. She is surrounded by a company of comedians and the performance is spoken of in the highest terms."

Miss Putnam will no doubt be greeted by a big crowd at the opera house next Tuesday night. The box sheet is now open at Nelson's, and you can secure reserve seat tickets.

Dan's a "Hustler" Now.

One of the recent important acquisitions of those progressive and persistent farcical purveyors, Messrs. Davis and Keogh, is the widely known German comedian, Dan Mason, who has starred for the past several seasons in his play of "A Clean Sweep." Mr. Mason now enacts the part of Arisen Busch in "The Hustler," and that he makes it an infinitely amusing impersonation can be accepted as a certainty.

What with John Kernell, Gus Mills, John S. Marr, Lee Harrison and Brother Mason, "The Hustler" is surely "in it" in the way of comedians. The show closed a brilliant three days' engagement at Nashville Tuesday night.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The Hustler" will strike Maysville to-morrow night, and will no doubt be greeted by a crowded house.

For the Farmer.

R. R. Templeman sold 15,000 pounds of tobacco to Waller Sharp for 10 cents all round.—Carlisle Mercury.

There has been some pretty hard weather on wheat throughout this section, but the crop shows excellent promise, nevertheless.

One farmer in the Washington neighborhood had six fine sheep killed by worthless dogs recently, and another lost thirty in the same way about the same time. A dog law is wanted to cover such cases, badly.

L. D. and William Blake, of Nicholas, sold their crops of tobacco to George Bramlette at 10 cents straight, in summer order. It is said they have sold in the last five years at least 67,800 pounds of tobacco off this same piece of ground of fourteen acres that cost them only $30 per acre.

AN ARTIST'S SKIP.

Akron Loses Its Portrait Company and Creditors Mourn.

AKRON, O., Jan. 23.—Quite a sensation has been created by the announcement of the disappearance of D. K. Bergman, who has been operating here on a large scale for the past year, under the name of the Akron Portrait company. Wednesday Bergman made a bill of sale conveying all his stock of frames and studio fixtures to Schaber, Reinthal & Company, of Cleveland, whom he owed over $1,000.

Other creditors, included twenty studio employees, were up in arms at once and one of them caused Bergman's arrest on a charge of attempting to defraud creditors. The hearing went over a day, and it was supposed Bergman was safe in jail. That night, however, he settled with the creditors who caused his arrest, and then skipped. He leaves unpaid claims of $2,000. His victims include a number of lady canvassers.

Heavy Failures in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—The failure of the big dry goods firm of McLachlan Brothers for $700,000, yesterday, resulted in the failure of Lindsay, Gilmore & Company for $235,000. The assignment of the two firms, it is thought, is the beginning of a general clearing out by the Canadian banks of weak houses, and several other large houses are expected to go in the next few days.

Miles Reviews His Troops.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY S. Dak., Jan. 23.—Gen. Miles reviewed the troops yesterday in the midst of a driving storm. The review occurred two miles south of the agency and all the troops participated except four companies of the First infantry. Two girls ran away from the school house Wednesday night and two more yesterday morning. The parents of the children, now confined in the school house, threaten to burn the building if the girls are not released.

Horrible Accident in a Rolling Mill.

BOONTOWN, N. J., Jan. 23.—Thomas Northwood, a boss roller in the iron rolling mills here, was caught between the rollers, while making some repairs yesterday and was drawn through, his body being crushed out as flat as a sheet of paper. The rollers turn out wrought iron plates half an inch in thickness and Northwood's body passed through this space. His flesh and bones were crushed to jelly. Northwood was 56 years old and leaves a widow and three children.

Went to Examine a Slow Fuse.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 23.—By a premature blast of giant powder in an excavation at Butler station, Assistant Division Engineer M. M. Kinney, of the Northern Pacific, was instantly killed and a dozen workmen had a miraculous escape. An eight-pound charge of powder was placed in the hole and the fuse leading to it burned so slowly that the men thought it had missed fire. Kinney and the workmen went to examine the charge, and arrived just as it exploded. Other workmen were buried in the debris, but none were seriously injured.

Distillery Burned.

PARIS, Ky., Jan. 23.—The H. C. Bowen distillery at Ruddell's Mills, this county, burned Wednesday morning, entailing a loss of $25,000. Insurance about one-fourth that amount. The company is composed of B. F. Bowen, of Ruddell's Mills, William Adams, of Cynthiana, and Robert Hoise, of Covington, and Leon Wolkoff, of Cincinnati. The distillery was erected just at the close of the war at a cost of $75,000, and was sold last summer to the present company, which is known as the Bourbon County Distilling company.

Big Damages Awarded.

LIMA, O., Jan. 23.—President S. A. Baxter, of the First National bank of this city, sued the St. Paul, Minn., Gas company for a breach of contract. The company contracted with Mr. Baxter for the taking of 5,000,000 gallons of fuel oil. The oil was shipped according to the terms of the contract which the gas company failed to keep, hence the suit for damages. The case came up for hearing and resulted in a verdict of $55,000 for Mr. Baxter.

Destitute Dakotans.

MASON CITY, Iowa, Jan. 23.—O. F. Bonser, of Santa Clara, N. Dak., was in the city Wednesday soliciting aid. His people are destitute and want clothing, provisions and grain. He says that with another failure of crops Dakota is doomed. The need of help is general throughout the state.

Insanity Dodge Failed.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Wilbur F. Barker, who shot his wife five times on Monday at the Bassett street public school, where she was a teacher, was unable to work his insanity dodge on the examining physicians, and was declared sane. He was arraigned yesterday for assault in the first degree, pleaded not guilty, and was committed to jail. Mrs. Barker still lingers between life and death.

Run Go a Bank.

OMAHA, Jan. 23.—A run was made Wednesday afternoon on the South Omaha branch of the Nebraska Savings and Exchange bank. The cause for the run is not known. The bank kept open till a late hour to pay all depositors in full. President John L. Mills says the bank is fully prepared to meet every obligation.

Loss of Steam Power.

A reprint of an address before the Franklin institute, by Thomas Pray, Jr., shows an astonishing difference in the cost of steam power in different establishments, the range being from $7.98 to $564.32 per horse power for a year of 3,080 working hours. A great waste of power from various causes is believed to be very common in locomotives, steamships, electric generators, etc.—Arkansas Traveler.

Thought He Was a Violinist.

Mr. Lake Streete on his first visit to London—Say, cabby, what's that statue? Cabman—That's the H'Albert memorial, sir.

Mr. Lake Streete—Oh, yes; heard him play the fiddle at home. The British must take more stock in him than we did.—Texas Sittings.

Gen. Butler's Opponents.

During his long practice Gen. Butler has been associated with or opposed to such men as Webster, Choate, Fletcher, Everett, Cushing, Curtis, Raton and Abbott. Gen. Butler was opposed to Rufus Choate in a suit for damages instituted on the part of the crew against a captain who had neglected to supply his ship with antidotes for the scurvy. Gen. Butler conducted the cause of the sailors and Mr. Choate defended the captain. The trial lasted nineteen days. Gen. Butler's chief points were that the captain was bound to procure fresh vegetables if he could, and that he could. A most remarkable amount of evidence was submitted by the sailors' counsel. Before the trial was over almost every leading physician in Boston and nearly every sea captain and ship owner had appeared on the witness stand. In spite of Mr. Choate's skill and eloquence the jury gave damages of $3,000.—Boston Advertiser.

An Ancient Joke Modernized.

There is the well known story of the impudent Irishman in a coffee house, who looked over a gentleman's shoulder while he was writing a letter, and when he read, "I have much more to say to you, but a fellow is looking over my shoulder, and reading all I write," cried out, "Pon my soul, sorr, I haven't read a word!" This story is found in The Baharistan (Abode of Spring) of Jami, the last of the great Persian poets of the Fifteenth century.—Youth's Companion.
